

Although snakes are much smaller than us, they can deal out terror in the blink of an eye. If they hunted us with the same vigor as we have hunted them, the American countryside would be a very dangerous place. Fortunately, they prefer to avoid confrontation. Join Terry, and learn how to avoid, recognize, and work around the snakes on our fitness trail, in the hills, and even on site. He will help us recognize the harmless garden snake and gopher snake, and educate us as to the latest first aid treatments for a snake bite.
